

HIS SEAT COME EASY.

A Congressman Whose Campaign Expenses Were Ten Cents.

Sharon, Penn., Nov. 24.—In filing his campaign expense account Till Reiss, the Democratic nominee for congress in the twenty-eighth district, makes a statement, in which he says:

"I accepted the nomination on the following platform: 'That I would send to each constituent in the district a package of seeds; draw my salary and all my board would spend at home with my constituents.'"

"Captain Whistler of the Western Press assured me that because I was an exalted Elk I could carry Elk county without doubt."

"I hereby certify to the following bill of expense: 'Two letters to St. Mary's, postage 4 cents. 'One letter to Marienville, postage 2 cents. 'One letter to Franklin, postage, 2 cents. 'One letter Meadville, postage, 2 cents. 'Total ten cents.'"

"P. S.—The only seeds I can give this year are little seeds of kindness."

FOUND IN RIVER.

Rich Woman Commits Suicide by Jumping in Water.

New York, Nov. 24.—The body of Mrs. Julia Fleischmann, who disappeared most mysteriously from her home, 18 West Eighty-sixth street, November 5 last, was found floating in the East river, near Ward's Island Sunday afternoon. Julius Fleischmann, a wealthy retired builder, has expended $10,000 in an unceasing search for his wife and offered $1,000 reward to any one finding her, dead or alive. Coroner Schrady said he was convinced that it was a case of suicide. "There were no marks on the body to warrant any other conclusion."

ACT OF INSANE MAN.

Shot Two Men and Wanted to Kill Five.

Carlisle, Ill., Nov. 24.—Allie Allen, aged 25, shot John L. Edwards, aged 50, and George Walker, aged 35, at their homes near Boulder Sunday. Both are in a critical condition. Alton, when placed in jail said: "I wanted to kill five men but I got two." He had been in an insane asylum one, but was never considered dangerous. Several months ago Walker worsted him in a law suit. Edwards was holding his property as trustee to keep him from squandering it. He imagined his guardian was not giving him a square deal.

NO RACE SUICIDE HERE.

A Couple Who Has Had Twenty-seven Children.

Spartanburg, Nov. 24.—The Herald says Wade Wilburn and his wife, Martha Wilburn, who live on Mrs. Little Padgett's place, about six miles north-east of the city, have been married twenty-seven years and are the parents of twenty-seven children. Mrs. Wilburn was fifteen years old when she married Mr. Wilburn. She is now 43 years old and her husband 53. The little Wilburns came singly and in good health. That marriage may be a profitable investment in Spartanburg county, this story is proof sufficient.

A Corn Exposition.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—The greatest corn exposition ever held in this State was opened in the State armory and two buildings connected with it Monday. The city is crowded with farmers from all parts of the State and there is every indication that the exhibition, which will remain open until Saturday evening, will be a great success. The main building contains a highly interesting exhibition of corn and corn products showing the methods of scientific farming and what can be accomplished by breeding corn for various purposes. In the same building the special premiums are exhibited, which have been contributed by various business firms in the country. The second building contains the decorative exhibits from the various counties, district schools, seed corn growers, etc., an Indian village and the State fish exhibit. The third building contains the State game exhibit under the direction of Dr. J. A. Wheeler. The total list of prizes and premiums represents a value of ten thousand dollars.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

The reason a woman can think her husband is clever is because she knows he isn't.

When a man prefers to live in the suburbs, he wouldn't if his wife would let him live in the city.

A woman likes to have some one coax her to do something she wants to do.

A good thing about a college education would be if somebody could invent a way to make it useful to a man.

Pillowport.

Into the harbor of dusk and dream.
When the twilight falls and the soft stars gleam,
The good ship Sleep sails in to rest
On the calm, sweet pillow of Mother's breast;
In'to the harbor of Pillowport,
The white-sailed vessel glides
Soft and still, to the airs that fill
The voice of the murmuring tides!

Oh, Master Love at the helm stands
With the tiller grasped in his faithful hands;
The sirens sing on the waves aloft,
And the twilight falls o'er the silent boat;

Into the harbor of Pillowport,
Safe from the seas of day,
The good ship soars to the golden shores
Of the city of Tired-of-Play!

Around and around the isles of bloom
She rides the storm and cleaves the spun;
All safe, all safe each soul on board
In the tender care of the gentle Lord;

Into the harbor Pillowport,
Dusk and the darkling dome,
With love's all-hail o'er the vessel's rail
From the sweetheart lips of home!

The wind blows east, the wind blows west,
'Tis twilight time on mother's breast;

Ahoy, ahoy, good ship, ahoy,
With the golden girl and golden boy;
Into the harbor of Pillowport,
Sweet ship of the silver streams,
Let anchors fall by the velvet mail
Of this beautiful city of dreams!

It's usually the things you haven't that would seem to make life worth living.

One of the delights about gambling is how the men who do it can always tell when they win and never when they lose.

A girl would much rather you told her how pretty she is than how much brains she has, but you might just as well tell her both.
